PROCESS FOR ENGAGING WITH INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

The process for engaging with international institutions involves several key steps. First, we identify potential partners based on their academic excellence, research capabilities, and shared interests. We then reach out to these institutions to explore the possibilities for collaboration. This process includes detailed discussions about the scope of the partnership, the resources involved, and the expected outcomes. Once a preliminary agreement is reached, we move forward with formal negotiations and the signing of a partnership agreement. Finally, we implement the partnership, ensuring that all parties are satisfied and that the collaboration is mutually beneficial. This process is ongoing, as we continue to seek out new opportunities for international engagement.
